Introducing the VEXO S-BMS System

At VEXO® International we believe that intelligent building control should not cost the earth....

New government climate change targets obligate the need to re-think how we consume energy in our residential and commercial buildings.

The VEXO S-BMS™ redefines the traditional approach to heating / hot water controls, meaning that you can now control more for less.

Trench heating and cooling units are mounted in the floor void. As part of the system, they ensure the proper temperature and optimal microclimate in both summer and winter. 2-pipe fan assisted units (CKV2) use the same 2-pipe installation for both heating and cooling, while the 4-pipe units (CVK4) have 2 separate circuits: one for heating and one for cooling. Such a system is most suitable for low temperature installations (air source heat pumps), thanks to the highly efficient heat exchanger for both heating and cooling.
